VOTER TURNOUT

The massive voter turnout needed to protect against vote theft and post election disruption materialized. 57.7 million voters broke the record by voting early. It was the second-highest turnout rate in a midterm year since 1914, exceeded only by the 2018 midterms. 124.3 million people voted. This represents a turnout rate of 49.42% among those eligible to vote. (Brennan Center 11/5 to be updated)

In majority-minority counties subject to elevated protections under the 1965 Voting Rights Act turnout was as much as 10 percentage points higher than in 2022 — an enormous increase followintg the evisceration of the Voting Rights Act in Louisiana v. Callais. While turnout in majority-minority counties in the rest of the country increased, it did not increase by as much.
